Client Care

A good relationship between the solicitor and the client is based on mutual trust and understanding. If there is anything that you are unsure of or unhappy about please discuss it with us.

In order to achieve the best outcome for you, we will need to work together. It will help us if you supply promptly any information, documents or funding which we ask you for and also if you tell us about any changes in your circumstances on your matter of which we would not otherwise be aware.

Our usual practice is to contact you when there is something to report (e.g. when we hear from the other party) and to give you periodic updates. If at any time you would like us to modify the frequency of our contact please let us know so that we can clarify how this might affect your costs.

If you are unhappy about the way in which we are dealing with your case then you should contact our Managing Partner, Graeme Brown (graeme.brown@eatons-solicitors.co.uk) who has overall responsibility for managing your matter, and who will be pleased to assist.

We will try to resolve any problem quickly and operate an internal complaints handling system (a copy of the procedure is available on request) to help us resolve the problem between ourselves. If for any reason we are unable to resolve the problem between us, then you have a right to complain to the Legal Ombudsman who can be contacted on 0300 555 0333 or enquiries@legalombudsman.org.uk.

There are time limits that apply; you must refer your complaint within either one year from the date of the act or omission being complained about; or one year when you should have realised there was cause for complaint; or six months of our final response to your complaint.

By way of reassurance to our clients, any work which we carry out is subject to stringent professional rules imposed on us and regulated by the Solicitors Regulation Authority (www.sra.org.uk/code-of-conduct.page) and in order to protect your interests we carry professional indemnity insurance cover at all times to a minimum of £3 million. The SRA can help if you are concerned about our behavior such as dishonesty, taking or losing your money or treating you unfairly because of a disability, your age or other characteristic.

We will be acting for our client, as stated in our initial letter to you. If you are instructing us on behalf of a company, it will be our client, and not you personally. If we have not correctly stated whom you wish to be our client, you should let us know. We always put our client's interests first, irrespective of who has agreed to pay our fees. Our retainer is for the benefit of our client alone, and is not intended to benefit third parties.

Costs Estimates

In general it is not possible to estimate the full amount of costs in advance because it will be impossible to predict precisely the amount of time which is going to be spent and any indication given by our staff as to the likely cost must be taken as exactly that i.e. as a “best guess” rather than a formal quotation. We will base any estimate on our experience of similar matters previously. Any initial estimate is therefore an indication to our client of “how much matters of this nature usually cost”. The time for which we charge may vary (up or down) according to factors which we cannot predict in advance such as the involvement demanded by other parties. You will appreciate that it is the time actually spent by us on your own matter that we are entitled to charge for, regardless of the original estimate.

Our clients may wish to set a limit on the costs which may be incurred by us. Please let us know at any time if you wish to set a budget. Any estimate or other reference to our charges should be taken as being exclusive of VAT and disbursements unless otherwise stated.

Any indication as to our charges given by our Property Services Department for a matter involving property (e.g. sales, purchases and re-mortgages) is based on a pre-estimate of the time that it is likely to take us (in our experience) to deal with that type of transaction. Occasionally such matters become much more complex than could have been anticipated from the information available at the outset and, in these circumstances, we will have to depart from our original estimate.

Costs

Although the way in which we calculate our charges is modified in certain areas of our work (such as residential conveyancing and accident claims, details of which will be provided by the member of staff dealing with you) our charges are based on the time spent by our staff on your matter, including time spent meeting with you or with others and time spent on telephone calls, correspondence, traveling, preparing or perusing documents and attending at court.

All the time spent is recorded and charged at an hourly rate based upon the seniority and experience of the member of staff doing the work, and with adjustments for factors like the difficulty, importance, urgency and value etc, of the work. The hourly rates are revised annually and a list of the rates (which as a minimum equate to the rates set by the Courts - www.gov.uk/guidance/solicitors-guideline-hourly-rates) being applied at any time by any member of staff working on your matter is available on request.

In Trust and Probate matters we do not charge any additional amount for acting as Executors. Probate work attracts, in addition to the appropriate hourly rate, a charge based on the value of the assets in the estate; 0.5% on realty and 1% on personalty.

The status of the member of staff dealing with your matter will be confirmed on the business card presented to you by them. The legal work undertaken by all staff (both solicitor and non-solicitor) is supervised by the Departmental Heads. In addition to the cost of the time which we spend on the matter, other expenses (referred to as “disbursements”) may have to be incurred on your behalf and we will take it that we have your authority to incur any disbursements which we think are necessary to your matter. This includes items which we have to pay out on your behalf such as court fees, barrister’s fees, doctor’s reports, search and registration and stamp duty fees etc. If substantial disbursements are incurred we will ask you to pay for these at the time.

Our practice, in common with most other solicitors, is to ask our client to make an initial payment on account towards the likely anticipated cost of the work to be carried out. We may agree that such a payment can be made by installments (e.g. by standing order) at a level convenient to you for your budgeting purposes. This level will not necessarily reflect the rate at which your costs are increasing. However, such an arrangement does not operate to prevent the balance of any of our invoices when submitted becoming immediately payable nor does it prevent us insisting that an increase in the installments, or an additional lump sum payment, is made before we can continue working for you.

In order to keep our clients abreast of the costs that they are incurring, we may raise a bill to cover our costs to that date at regular intervals by way of interim bills. You may have a right to object to our bill by applying to the court for an assessment of the bill under Part III of the Solicitors Act 1974.

All bills rendered by us are due for payment within 7 days of the date on which the invoice has been rendered. VAT will be charged on our costs at the current rate. Interest at 8%, in accordance with The Solicitors (Non-Contentious Business)

Remuneration Order 1994, will be charged on any bill outstanding after the expiry of one month from submitting it. If the bill is not paid when due or if you do not make a payment on account when requested, we will decline to act any further. You will become liable for any additional costs which are incurred by us in seeking or enforcing payment of an outstanding invoice including a charge for the time spent by our staff in so doing (chargeable at our minimum hourly rate) and any fees charged to us by a debt collection agency instructed by us. We are also entitled to make a deduction or to exercise a lien for unpaid costs against any of your monies, papers or documents which are in our possession.

In the event that some other party agrees to, or is ordered to, pay your legal costs, you nevertheless remain directly liable to us for payment of any bill of costs calculated on the basis outlined above, even if the amount paid by that other party is a smaller amount and if you have instructed us jointly with anyone else you will each be jointly and severally liable for all your costs in the matter.

You should be aware that in cases where proceedings are issued the losing party will usually be ordered to pay the winning parties' legal costs. Although we will always advise you on the prospects of success, we will take it that you accept the consequences of this risk of losing. It is for you to let us know if you wish to insure against this risk. By contrast the winning party cannot expect to recover their costs in Family Court or Employment Tribunal Proceedings.

You should let us know if you have any entitlement to have your costs covered by a third party (e.g. legal expenses insurers or public funding) and keep us informed of any changes in your financial circumstances. Otherwise we will be entitled to assume that you remain a privately funded client and to charge you accordingly.

Payments

When we account to you for any monies that we hold on your behalf we will be entitled to insist that payment is made by cheque, rather than by electronic transfer, in the interest of banking security, you should expect to receive payment by cheque unless we agree otherwise (in which event there will be an administration fee chargeable of £50.00 plus V.A.T). In any event we may not act on instructions to make an electronic payment sent to us by email and we advise against your communicating such information to us by email. Similarly, to protect against cyber fraud we would advise you not to make a transfer of any money to us electronically without having first checked by speaking with us.

Where we hold sums on your behalf in our general client account for a period in excess of 28 days we will account to you for interest at a rate equivalent to what the sum would have earned on a Business Reserve Account at Natwest Bank.

Confidentiality

As solicitors we are under a duty to keep your affairs confidential. To enable your matter to proceed we will take it that we have your authority to give relevant information to third parties (e.g. parties that you have involved or that we need to use such as lenders or other professionals). Otherwise there are very few exceptions to our duty to keep any information you tell us confidential. You should note, however, the following examples:

- 1) We are required to comply with the Anti Money Laundering Regulations which oblige us to obtain proof of your identity and to make a report to the authorities if there is any suspicion that any transaction involves the proceeds of criminal activity. By instructing us you are authorising us to check your identity and for us to access agencies holding personal data about you at a cost to you of £50 plus VAT.
- 2) If we are acting for you on a purchase of a property we will receive instructions from your lender to also act on their behalf. We then have a duty to pass to them information which we would reasonably expect your lender to consider important in deciding whether or not to lend to you (such as whether you may have given misleading information to them or the information which we might reasonably expect to have been given to your lender is no longer true).

- 3) In the event that you qualify for public funding of your legal costs, we are under a duty to provide information to the Legal Aid Agency which would influence their decision to grant or maintain funding.

- 4) If you instruct us jointly with anyone else, or you permit someone else to communicate with us on your behalf, we will take it that we can share with them any information you give us and we will be entitled to assume that any instructions we receive will have been authorised (and any advice we give communicated) amongst all of you. By instructing us you agree that we have no liability to you for any consequence arising in respect of our perceived obligations as set out above.

Storage of Deeds & Documents

We are paper free. Please note that our policy is not to create a paper file, nor to retain or store any documents or correspondence in hardcopy paper form. These will instead be scanned to our electronic file and any original paper document will be destroyed once scanned or, at the latest, within 28 days of the closing by us of a matter. We will retain an electronic copy of all the documents in our file for a period of 6 years and we will only arrange to delete our electronic file at the end of that period. We will not, of course, destroy any Deeds, Wills, Securities that you give us for safe keeping. Where an electronic file, stored papers, Deeds or Wills are retrieved from storage by us to enable us to act for you again we would not normally charge for such retrieval. Only if the retrieval is for some other purpose will we make a charge of £50.00 plus VAT to cover the necessary admin, perusal and copying.
